STORY 3

7th grade students Emily and Robin lived in the same neighborhood and had been good friends since third grade. But last year Robin's family moved hundreds of miles away. Now the girls keep in touch through texting and a social media site that both sets of parents have approved of them using. While on the social media site one afternoon, Emily receives a friend request from someone she doesn't know. But seeing that the unknown contact is an online friend of Robin's, she accepts the request. Soon this person begins asking Emily for personal information including her phone number.

STORY 4

On one of her social media sites, 8th grade student Jemma gets a new follower — "Robert." Robert likes and comments on Jemma's posts, always saying something nice and flattering that makes Jemma feel good about herself. Although she does not know Robert in real life, she gets to know him slowly online over the course of many months and feels comfortable communicating with him. Over time they establish an online relationship. When Jemma discovers that he lives nearby and offers to meet her, she jumps at the chance.
